

The Megan Cornog Memorial HIGHWAY SAFETY SCHOLARSHIP

---

Presented by The UNC Highway Safety Research Center

The Megan Cornog Memorial Highway Safety Scholarship is available to a student with an interest in one of a variety of transportation topic areas, including, but not limited to, engineering, behavior research, planning, public health and environmental issues. Applicants must be enrolled full-time in a graduate program, working toward a master's degree in fall 2019 (this includes students in the first several years of a combined master's/Ph.D. program), at any of the University of North Carolina system campuses. This scholarship is awarded in memory of Megan Cornog, a project coordinator at HSRC who lost her battle with cancer in 2010. Candidates for the $1,000 scholarship will be asked to write a 500–1,000 word essay on a specific transportation issue, further described on the Application Form. Academic performance, career goals, extracurricular activities and work experience will also be considered. More information on the work of the HSRC can be found at www.hsrc.unc.edu.

The Megan Cornog Memorial HIGHWAY SAFETY SCHOLARSHIP

Presented by The UNC Highway Safety Research Center

Transportation is a broad field that includes professionals who work in multidisciplinary topic areas, including, but not limited to, engineering, behavior research, planning, public health and environmental issues. The UNC Highway Safety Research Center's mission is to improve the safety, security, access and efficiency of all surface transportation modes through an interdisciplinary program of research, evaluation and information dissemination. The purpose of The Megan Cornog Memorial Highway Safety Scholarship is to foster the education and professional development of graduate students with an interest in a transportation-related area.

Eligibility Requirements

To be eligible for the scholarship, the applicant must be enrolled full-time in a graduate program, working toward a master's degree, at one of the University of North Carolina campuses. This includes students in the first several years of a combined master's/Ph.D. program. Students should be enrolled in the fall semester of 2019 and have an interest in the transportation field. Current HSRC employees, students employed by HSRC after August 1, 2018, and/or relatives of current HSRC employees are not eligible for the scholarship.

Procedures

Individuals meeting the above requirements may complete this application. Completed applications must be postmarked by the May 15, 2019 deadline and sent to the address listed on the cover sheet. The student selected to receive this scholarship will be notified in July 2019. Students not selected will be notified shortly thereafter.

Criteria for Evaluation

All qualified and eligible applications will be reviewed. A review committee of transportation research experts will judge the applicants on the basis of a completed application, a 500 – 1,000 word essay and an optional recommendation statement by a faculty member or employer. Final evaluation will take into consideration the applicant's academic excellence, career goals and work experience. Applicants may be subject to an interview upon the request of the review committee. The review committee also reserves the right to not award the scholarship if it is deemed that there is no suitable applicant for the award.

Awarding of Scholarship

Scholarship funding will be sent directly to the recipient's university financial division for distribution to the student.

About Megan Cornog

In 2010, HSRC lost a talented staff member, Megan Cornog. Megan died Sunday, Nov. 7, 2010, at her home in Carrboro, N.C., after a courageous battle with cancer. Earning her master's degree from UNC-Chapel Hill in May 2009, Megan began her career working as a project coordinator for HSRC, focusing on pedestrian and bicycle issues. Megan will be remembered for her tenacious spirit, strong work ethic and passion for active transportation.
